POLITICAL VIEWS OF A GERMAN AMERICAN—THE PUBLIC MORAL AND NATIONAL EDUCATION.

It is a historical fact, that parties, after having grown up and become powerful, sink into corruption.

The Democratic party proves this fact clearly.

Admonitions have been given, attempts of reform have been made, all of which have always been frustrated.

Look at the principles of the Democratic party, antagonistic to every principle of humanity, of equality, of right and justice. Look at the Democratic leaders, and in particular at Tweed, Sweeny & Co., the principal chiefs of Tammany, who, for the purpose of sustaining the Democratic party are compelled to forge and stuff the ballot and to organize a band of robbers and criminals as active agents of the Democratic party.

In order to save the Republican party and the country from this danger of corruption. it is necessary to lift it up to a higher grade of public morals. We should for our own benefit take lessons from other nations, and I am modest enough to call your attention to the public and social morality of the people in Germany. The statistics show there a minimum of crime, compared with other countries; the administration is free from every corruption, all officers being as intelligent as they are honest and moral, the social and family life is strictly connected by the band of morality. An author in reviewing the Franco-German war expressed the exact truth, saying:

"It is not only the unity of Germany, it is not the genius of political and military organization which conquered France in the course of a few months and elevated Germany to her height of power and splendor; it is rather the sublime idea of moral purity, prevailing in every stage of civil and public life of the people. It would be an impossibility in Germany, to honor or to appoint a man to an office of honor, who is stigmatized with the brand of moral infamy. But in this country it is quite different. The moral infamy, though not considered a virtue is however too frequently overlooked. Look at New York city, at Winans of the New York legislature, etc: Considering this tendency of public life, I would call the attention of the Republicans to a very important movement, in progress and rapidly spreading among the German Americans in the whole Union, to wit: "The national association of German Americans, formed for the purpose, to shake off the fetters of political parties and to erect the moral purity as the political standard and criterion in voting for candidates and finally to fight all public corruption to the bitter end. This association considers justly, public morals as the only means to save the Republic from the imminent danger, from which the old corrupt Roman and lately the French Empire perished.

The Republican party, the only progressive party of the country should take notice of that important movement and endorse public morals as the political basis in the next Republican platform. If we should embody puplic morals as one of the planks of the Republican party, we must not blandish, but detect and amend the errors.

It is a historical truth, that the past of the Republican party is the most glorious; for it has emancipated the slaves, has carried the country safely through the war of Rebellion, reconstructed the Rebel states on the basis of human rights, proclaimed the doctrine of equal civil and political rights and planted itself in the public finances on national integrity.

The Republican party must not forget that, during its ten years of supremacy, it has lifted the labor of the country from a condition of bondage and oppression, to liberty and citizenship; that it has appropriated in the interest of the laboring man, and to his use the vast inheritance of the public domain; and, that having been thus appropriated, it has become a Sacred trust and should not be diverted to any extent whatever, not absolutely necessary to render the remaining acres available and more valuable to the future occupant. It should from this time forward be held, that the period of appropriation for development has ended and that, the period of reservation for occupancy has commenced.

Another important point is, to promote the welfare of the country by establishing a National Educational system. Republican Institutions must rest on the firm basis of intelligence and education. The ignorance of the people in various localities waits for some such Educational bill, as for two years has been pending in Congress, advocated by Hoar and others, without avail.

ROSALIA, KANSAS June 19th 1871.

FRIEND BROWN:—Having received a great number of letters inquiring about our country. I thought the best way to answer them would be through the medium of your valuable paper. Our county is bounded on the north by Marion and Chase, East by Greenwood and West by Sedgwick. Eldorado is our county seat. I am situated on a small tributary to the little Walnut, a good sized stream which flows in a southerly direction, emptying into the White Water, thence into the Arkansas. Our streams are pure, more so if possible, than your Beech Creek up among the mountains; they are also rapid and abound in fish. Our land is beautifully rolling prarie, sufficiently rolling to drain itself everywhere, sloughs and swamps are known. Along the streams are wide Aottoms very level, yet two hours after a hard rain you may walk out any where in your slippers without the feor of wetting your feet.

THE TIMBER,

a Pennsylvanian would call a small matter and very poor, yet we think we have enough for all practical purposes, the most that is really needed is for fuel. It consists of elm, oaks, bur, white and red hackburg, honey locust, sycamore, coffee, bean, pignut, hickory, ash, walnut and cotton wood. It has been said that Kansas is the place where the

WINDS

their revels keep. True the wind blows here without the least difficulty; but it has been reported that they are very hot in summer, the latter statement I take the liberty to deny. I have been here one year the last day of last April and felt the hot winds last summer, and to me, at least, they felt cool and refreshing, and far more refreshing than sweltering in the hot sun in Pennsylvania. Moreover the air so kept in motion is both pure and healthy. One year ago there were but five claims taken on the homestead strip, from here to Eldorado a distance of thirteen miles, now there is only the school section of our township vacant. One year ago Eldorado got the mail brought to them but twice in a week; now we get it twice in a day. We have been set off and have organized a township of our own and think we can steer the machine as well ourselves as Eldorado can for us. The general fertility of our is not surpassed anywhere. A man near Eldorado tells us if we sow our wheat the last of August or the first of September, and don't get forty bushels per acre, he will pay for the trouble of putting it out. Mellons of all kinds beat Jersey all hollow, larger and far more delicious. To make a good days work at husking corn, a man should be on horseback, in order to be able to reach the ears, which are very large and always two on a stalk. And there are a few more claims of the same sort left.

In consequence of the lack of timber we have a herd law, which requires every one to take care of his stock, so that crops growing loose on the Prarie is perfectly safe. Said herd law is to last five years, during which time we can hedge our land with a far more enduring, beautiful and safe fence than can be done with rails.

LUMBER

can be bought of a good quality for $30 per thousand, good shingles $6 per thousand, flooring $4,50 per hundred, all our lumber is planed. Our we think are low, extra brown sugar 12 cts. coffee 25 per pound, syrup from 80 cts. to $1,25 bacon 10 cts. butter 25 cts, eggs 20 cts.

GROCERIES,

J. M. STEVENS.

JOB WORK.—Our iron, glass, axe and other manufacturers should remember when they want job work, that it is their duty, and should be their pleasure to bring it to the REPUBLICAN office. If we advocate a tariff, why should you support the doctrines of free trade by getting your work done elsewhere. Reflect.

The seats of Joseph S. Watson, of the 4th Philadelphia district, and Dr. Sidney Thompson, of Huntingdon county, were contested by R. C. Tittermary and William Lewis. In both cases vacancies had occurred, in the first by resignation and in the second, by death.

A special committee of three to whom the matters were referred, reported in favor of admitting the whole four as members and the report was adopted.

On motion, Col. David Stanton and Col. R. B. Beath, the nominees for Auditor General and Surveyor General, and Hon. William Elliott, President of the State Convention, who were present, were admitted to participate in all the deliberations of the Committee, except in voting.

On motion, Gen. H. H. Bingham, of Philadelphia, was elected Treasurer, by acclamation.

On motion, the number of Secretaries was fixed at four—three to be elected by the Committee and one to be appointed by the Chairman.

Maj. A. R. Calhoun, Ezra Lukens, and J. W. M. Newlin, of Philadelphia, P. M. Lytle, of Huntingdon, and D. F. Houston, of Mercer, were nominated for Secretaries. A ballot being had resulted in the election of Messrs. Lukens, Lytle and Houston.

On motion, the Chairman was authorized to appoint an Executive Committee of fifteen, members of the Committee, and a Finance Committee of seven, not to be necessarily confined to the Committee.

The building in which the Headquarters of the Committee (No. 1105 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia,) had heretofore been, having been removed, the Chairman was authorized to appoint a Committee of three to secure suitable apartments for that purpose, in that city.

After hearing the reports of Committeemen, on motion, the Committee adjourned to meet at the call of the Chairman.—Blair County Radical.

NARROW GAUGE ROADS.

W. W. BROWN:

I was in Bellefonte last week when Mr. Duncan reported the action of the Directors of the Lewisburg and Spruce Creek Railroad Co., on the subject of the Narrow Gauge. I was not only loud in abusing the Directors and the Penn'a Railroad Co., but I swore I would never pay a cent of my subscription to the road. Well I was as cross as a bear for several days, when I met my neighbor Joe G. Joe you know is a man that knows a thing or two and has always been a great advocate of the L. & S. C. R. R., so as soon as I saw him I shouted, "well Joe what do you think of the kind of road the Penn'a R. R. Co. are going to give us?" "Kind of road," says he, "what do you mean?" Why says I, "they are going to make a d—n narrow gauge road and I for one will never pay a cent of my subscription." "Hold on," says Joe, "make no rash promises, you say the Penn'a Co., are going to make us a road." "O yes, says I, there is no mistake in that, but then it is a narrow gauge." "Well, says he, "I have been working for a road all my life, and I shall be very well satisfied if we get a Narrow Gauge." Then he ups and tells me how he had read in the Phil'a Press, several letters, describing the workings of Narrow Gauge roads in Wales. How the cost of building them was only two thirds as much as Broad Gauge roads, and that the working expenses were not more than half as much, how the accommodation for passengers and freight were just as good as on Broad Gauge roads and that the stock of a Narrow Gauge would be sure to pay, while that of a Broad Gauge could not, &c.

"Well," says I, "Joe what about having to re-ship all the freight at the terminus of the road, and everything that comes off other roads will have to be rehandled, and passengers must change cars at Tyrone or Lewisburg or Bellefonte." Says he, "What matter does it make if the freights has to be reshipped you or I don't have to do it, that is the work of the Railroad companies and my word for it, they will find a way to have it done cheaply and expeditiously, as for passengers," says he "they would have to change cars any how Broad Gauge or Narrow Gauge." "Hold on Joe," says I, "with a Broad Gauge our road would be a through road and our passenger cars would run right through, and through freight would pass over our road and our stock would pay." Then Joe swore, and asked me if I was such a fool as to believe such stuff. "A 'through road,'" says he, "why it will be a 'through road' from Tyrone to Lewisburg, but no farther, be it Broad or Narrow Gauge. Where are you going to get your 'through passengers,' and 'through freight,' and where are you going to take them?" "Why," says I, "we are going to get them from the West and take them to New York and Philadelphia." "What nonsense," says he, "do you suppose the Penn'a Railroad Co., are going to bring passengers and freight from the West to Tyrone and then let them go over the L. & S. C. Railroad, when they have a road of their own to Philadelphia and New York? do you suppose they are such fools as to spend hundreds of millions of dollars to get a through line from East to West and then give another road of fifty miles in length all the advantage?" "No," says he, "if the Penns Valley farmers want a 'through road' and no change of passengers and freight at Tyrone and Lewisburg, they must build a road from Lewisbrug to New York and from Tyrone to St. Louis." Then he went on to tell me so much, he had seen in the Philadelphia Press, and what was the opinion of all the great Railroad men of the country on Narrow Gauges, and how Thos A. Scott, the great Railroad King, as he called him was building a Narrow Gauge from Leavenworth to Oregon, &c., &c., that he convinced me that a Narrow Gauge was the best kind of road for us, and that the best thing I could do was to attend to my farming and let practical Railroad men attend to building Railroads.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., June 1st 1871.

W. W. BROWN, Esq.—

Dear Sir:—Having sojourned for thirty-four years upon the hill-sides of the "Keystone," and eighteen years of that time in old Centre, it is but natural that an interest in the State in general, and the central part in particular, should yet be with me, and under this feeling that you and others of my acquaintance might know of my existance. and whereabouts. A line to you presented a pleasant aspect, and made an opening to meet the prompting an inclination to send you greeting that all is well, and to express a desire for the happiness and permanent prosperity of Centre's pleasant "folks."

Well the "Sunny South" is now and has been our home for twenty months. So far, no reason to regret our course, while we encounter some disadvantages there are many, very many, peculiarly pleasant advantages that cannot be had further North. The climate and seasons are so different from any part of Pennsylvania, for example, here we were eating green pees, new potatoes and ripe strawberries in April, and judging from what I know, from experience you have none of those yet, as cultivated there. The grain is harvested. Corn six to eight feet high in tassel and silk, I have some, been so for a week, will have roasting ears in 10 days or less. Raspberries, whortleberries and black berries are ripe. In fact 3 days since, I saw ripe peaches. This is a great country for flowers, we have the finest roses I ever saw, we have them constantly from early in April until December, and what is very singular, a shoot will start up in the spring and now full of choice roses—this I never saw nor heard of in the North—same way with raspberries—the young wood made entirely this season now has fine berries on. We have tomatoes 1½ inches in diameter—will soon be ready for the table.

Northern emigration is very considerable to this place and vicinity—it now reaches about sixty families—which has tended to advocate the price of property somewhat. Your old neighbor and friend Wm. Underwood has a very nice property here, and appears to appreciate it. They are generally well. You are aware of the death of Joseph Underwood, as I sent you a paper containing an obituary of him at the time of his death. He was insured for $3,000 which his widow has since received.

We have a pleasant little city, governed by Mayor and City Council, the the latter of which Wm. Underwood is one. All Republicans were elected by heavy majorities—your humble servant and sons assisted in the pleasant task, &c., &c. Hon. C. L. Cobb, M. C., from this the 1st District of N. C., had 5,000 majority, is an intense radical, lives here, and a man that I esteem much. Hon. John Pool, U. S. Senator from N. C., also lives here, of him I need not speak. Frank Blair could tell you something of him suffice he is a sound radical and an able man. We have also U. S. Supreme Judges and District Superior Judges, State Senators and Legislators elect, all living here; so you see that we have some distinguished men in our midst.

I am personally acquainted with all even the dark hued legislator. They are very courteous and polite, and are pleased to see the "Yankees."

This city is pleasantly situated on the banks of the Pasquotank river, which is navigable for steamers and heavy vessels, both of which are numerous here. The productions are cotton, corn, sweet potatoes, peas and beans of every variety, ground-nuts (or "Pea nuts;") the waters abound with fish of almost every conceivable variety, oysters in abundance. The forests abound in great varieties of wood, much of which is sent North and manufactured into various useful articles, and sent back for use here.

From the present outlook the indications are suggestive of a permanent sojourn in the "Sunny South," the homes of "Helper" & "Raymon," having identified ourselves with natural interest in the shape of a pleasant home and made acquaintances, attractive and agreeable.

We were very sorry to hear of the death of our mutual friend C. G. Ryman. He and your humble servant stood shoulder to shoulder and battled for long years in the ranks of the glorious old Whig party, the leaven of which kept increasing until it upturned the social fabric, and unchained four millions of God's own children.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

BETSEY DESTROYS THE PAPER.

SEQUEL TO "BETSEY AND I ARE OUT."

I've brought back the paper, lawyer, and fetched the parson here,
To see that things are regular, settled up fair and clear;
For I've been talking with Caleb, and Caleb has talked with me,
And the 'mount of it is we're minded to try once more to agree.

I came here on the business—only a word to say, leb is staking pea-vines, and couldn't come to-day.)
Just to tell you and parson how that we've changed our mind:
So I'll tear up the paper, lawyer; you see it isn't signed.

And now if parson is ready, I'll walk with him toward home,
I want to thank him for some things; 'twas kind of him to come.
He's showed the Christian spirit, stood by us firm and true;
We mightn't have changed our mind, squire, if he'd been a lawyer too.

There!—How good the sun feels, and the grass and blowin' trees;
Something about them lawyers makes me feel fit to freeze,
I wasn't bound to state particulars to that man.
But it's right you should know, parson, about our change of plan.

We'd been some days a waverin' a little, Caleb and me,
And wished the hateful paper at the bottom of the sea;
But I guess 'twas the prayer last evening, and the few words you said,
That thawed the ice between us, and brought things to a head.

You see, when we came to division, there was things that wouldn't divide;
There was our twelve-year-old baby, she couldn't be satisfied
To go with one or the other, but just kept whimperi 'low,
"I'll stay with papa and mamma, and where they go I'll go."

Then there was grandsire's Bible—he died on our wedding-day;
We couldn't halve the old Bible, and should it go or stay?
The sheets that was Caleb's mother's, her sampler on the wall,
With the sweet old names worked in—Tryphena and Eunice, and Paul.

It began to be hard then, parson, but it grew harder still.
Talkin' of Caleb established down at McHenrysville;
Three dollars a week 'twould cost him; no mendin' nor sort of care,
And board at the Widow Meacham's a woman that wears false hair.

Still we went on a talkin'; I agreed to knit some socks;
And make a dozen striped shirts, and a pair of wa'mus frocks;
And he was to cut a doorway from the kitchen to the shed;
"Save you climbing steps much, in frosty weather," he said.

He brought me the pen at last: I felt a sinkin' and he Looked as he did with the agur, in the Spring of sixty-three.
'Twas then you dropped in, parson; 'twasn't much that was said,
"Little children, love one another," but the thing was killed stone dead.

I should like to make confession; not that I'm going to say
The fault was all on my side, that never was my way,
But it may be true that women—tho' how 'tis I can't see—
Are a trifle more aggravatin' than men know how to be.

Then, parson, the neighbors' meddlin'—it was'nt pourin' oil;
And the church a-laborin' with us, 'twas worse than wasted toil;
And I've thought, and so has Caleb, though maybe we are wrong,
If they'd kept to their own business, we should have got along.

There was Deacon Amos Purdy, a good man as we know.
But hadn't a gift of laborin' except with the scythe and hoe;
Then a load came over in peach time from the Wilbur neighberhooe.
"Season of prayer," they called it; didn't do an atom of good.

I'll tell you about the heifer—one of the kindest and best—
That brother Ephriam gave me, the fall he moved out West;
I'm free to own it riled me that Caleb should think and say,
She died of convulsions—a cow that milked four gallons a day.

But I needn't have spoke of turnips, needn't have been so cross,
And said hard things, and hinted as if 'twas all my loss;
And I'll take it all back, parson; that fire shan't ever break out,
Though the cow was choked with a turnip, I never had a doubt.

Then there are p'ints of doctrine, and views of a future state,
I'm willing to stop discussin'; we can both afford to wait:
'Twont bring the milleunium sooner, disputin' about when it's due,
Although I feel an assurance that mine's the Scriptural view.

But the blessedest truths of the Bible, I've learned to think, don't lie
In the texts we hunt with a candle to prove our doctrines by.
But them that come to us in sorrow, and when we're on our knees;
So if Caleb won't argue on free will, I'll leave alone the decrees.

One notion of Caleb's, parson, seems rather misty and dim:
I wish if it comes convenient, you'd change a word with him.
It don't quite stand to reason, and for gospel it isn't clear,
That folks love better in heaven for having quarreled here.

I've no such an expectation; why, parson, if that is so,
You needn't have worked so faithful to reconcile folks below,
I hold another opinion, and hold it straight and square,
If we can't be peaceable here, we won't be peaceable there.

But there's the request he made, you know it, parson, about
Bein' laid under the maples that his own hand set out,
And me to be laid beside him when my time come to go.
As if—as if—don't mind me; but 'twas that onstrung me so.

And now that some scales, as we think, have fallen from our eyes,
And things brought so to a crisis have made us both more wise.
Why, Caleb says, and so I say, till the Lord parts him and me,
We'll love each other better, and try our best to agree.

BY FITS AND STARTS.—Spasmodic efforts amount to little or nothing. It is steady application that accomplishes. One may be easily "fired up" to do something, and as suddenly cooled off. The team—of men or horses—that pull together, and pull steadily, will do the work. But those who are always beginning, and never finishing, have more of the spasmodic than of the persevering. Moral: Teach your children to do one thing at a time, and to finish what they begin.

Among the Mails.

A correspondent of the Genesee Republican, who has evidently "been there," thus graphically describes his experience as deputy Postmaster:

I was sworn in and entered upon the duties of the office on the first of July, 18—. Yes, I was sworn into the office, and for fear one oath would not answer the purpose, I swore in the office every day for a year; at the end of which time I had become so profane that I swore myself out of office without any difficulty.

I shall never forget that first day's experience. It was as hot as an attic sleeping-room, and the office about as large.

Mails were in from Slangville, Talk Town, Blow-on-Valley, Lip Creek, Gab Hill, Buzzin Flats, Clackfield, and Shouting Hollow.

Mails were in from the east, west, north and south.

Way mails, side mails, catch mails and through mails all slung at you like bundles of wheat when you can't mow them away half as fast as they are slung. I stood in the midst of that mountain of mail matter, so helpless and dumbfounded. I didn't know what the matter was. I was as weak and limber as the limpsiest bag in the pile. I actually did not know myself from the sides of sole leather that lay about me.

In ten minutes the mails went east and west, and already a half dozen sorrel whiskered, raccoon-capped stage drivers were shouting "Mails!" "hurry up there," "d——d slow this morning," and I heard one shimbly-shambly, grass-fed mule director say to another, "I guess the new deputy is a better hand on sorting taters than he is letters."

I knew I wan't much of a sorter that day, nor much of a fighter any day, but I did sorter want to get at that miserable skinful of revilement, and show him my proficiency as distributing clerk, but I was otherwise engaged.

Frantically I seized the mail key, and the first thing I attempted to do with it was to wind the office clock. Finally I succeeded in getting the mail bags open, and all emptied into a huge box in the centre of the office.

As near as I could guess there must have been about fourteen bushels of unassorted mail matter.

If it had been about fourteen bushels of beans to be handpicked the task would not have seemed any more formidable.

Slangville letters went to the right, Talk Town letters went to the left, Blow-on-Valley went over the right shoulder, Lip Creek over the left, Gab Hill went obliquely to the left, Clackfield went directly over the head, and Shouting Hollow between the legs; the space directly in front being reserved for Bottleford.

I was a little particular at first not to make any mistakes, but the grumbling of those waiting for their letters, and the shouting of the drivers without, warned me that my time was nearly up. So I just threw them around like dealing whist, gave each a fair proportion, reserving the biggest pile for Bottleford.

Then I stufied the mail bags, and jerked them out of the office door, and it was wonderful to see how all the hurry and impatience of those miserable drivers vanished as soon as they got possession of them. One, the noisiest of the lot, the one who had made the undignified and ta-tered comparison as a sorter, actually hung around for half an hour, staring at me through the window, and laughing at my perplexities. He said he would have me reported at headquarters.

I made my mind if I ever got a chance, I would report at his headquarters, and hind too, for the matter of that.

The stage drivers disposed of, a more formidable and more impossible task presented itself.

Three hundred and fifty letter boxes to be hunted up, each with the owner's name in fine hand, written on its upper margin. My boss, the P. M., told me I must find them out myself, then I would always remember where they were.

He was a man who had far more confidence in his judgement than I had in my memory. I recollect (and very surprising it is that I do) when I was first put upon the multiplication table, that solid square table, as constructed in the days of Euboll and Willet.

I remember how dim, how uncertain, how unintelligible its twelve ranks of figures looked, beginning with 1 and ending with 144.

Just so that parallelogram of hollow squares looked to me at that moment. It seemed as if each individual owner was gazing with blood-thirsty eyes upon his number, and unless he received a letter he would go for the deputy. In a fit of desperation I seized a large package of letters.

Alonzo Plummer was the first name. Where was Alonzo Plummer's box?

If the name had been written on it in letters as big as horseshoes, I could not have seen it. I slammed it into the nearest box.

I did so with all the rest.

Every box had a letter as far as they went, and then I raised the slide. A rush was made for the opening.

"No. 9, No. 77, No. 50, No. 60, No. 102, Sir, No. 240, if you please; anything for Storkes? anything for Bilger? No. 319, No. 185, anything for Shellgrave? anything for Pickletoe?"

And so it went, every mouth belching forth a number or a name. I shoved out the letters indiscriminately and impartially, without regard to age, sex, nationality, color, or previous condition.

Everybody got letters, but not one in fifty got their own.

"Here, Sam," says one, "is a letter for you in my box." "Yes, and here is one for you in mine."

"What's this doing in my box?" says another.

"Ah yes, excuse me, a slight mistake, belongs to Mr. Bangs." "Bangs, did you say? I just asked and you said there was nothing for Bangs."

With my pencil I marked on it the number of the box from which I had taken it, and handed it out, remarking in a tone of injured innocence that it was a mistake of the sender, and not of mine."

"What is that nasty Polly Ines' letter doin' in my box," screamed a rural swainess on the right of the attacking column. "Mistook your name." Madam thoagh it was politeness.

But the greatest pests of all were the school children.

As soon as school was out, there was one wild race for the post office. They began to enquire as soon as they came within shooting distance.

They would enquire for themselves, and then for anybody that lived within five miles of them.

"Anything for any of the Murphys?" yells a little freckled-faced, yellow-topped potato mound, with nationality so strongly developed that you could smell it.

"Anything for Jane Murphy?" No. "Anything for Ann Murphy?" No. "Anything for Tom Murphy?" No, nor for Pat Murphy, nor Dennis Murphy, nor Pete Murphy, nor for any Murphy, dead, living, unborne, native or foreign born, naturalized or otherwise, male or female, why created He them? The Murphy family disposed of, the Fitz Geralds, and Fitz Patricks and Fitz Moonleys were thrown at me until I caught them myself I had Fitz chronic, and I could tell every day when they were "coming" on.

Children came to the office to enquire for letters, so young that they hadn't strength to carry home the weekly Tribune, and who didn't know the difference between a letter and door plate.

Not weekly nor semi-weekly, nor daily, but hourly, as often as they could think of it.

I have often seen them hang around on the outside waiting for their hour to come and enquire for letters.

Great strapping girls came every day for weeks and months who had the measles oftener than they had a letter, but they might have come to see the deputy, which was better than the measles, if not quite as good as receiving a letter.

One man came every day for three weeks, and made a terrible rumpus every time he came about the carelessness and inefficiency of the mail service. At last his important letter arrived, and it proved to be a patent medicine almanac of last year, but he had got fifteen or twenty dollars' worth of labor and information out of me for nothing, and he was accordingly satisfied.

I like an enquiring mind. It shows research and progression.

It is the spirit reaching out for something by which to draw itself higher, and it gets hold of a soft thing when it grabs a deputy postmaster.

He can get more civil answers out of him in one minute, than he can blast out of all the railroad conductors in Christendom, and he gets it for nothing, which is wrong.

If the government would charge a farthing for every NO that is given in answer to the enquirer, "Is there anything in the office for me?" it would pay off the national debt in six weeks; and another great advantage it would be, their deputies would not be required to say NO so much, which would give people of ordinary minds and women a chance to display themselves.

A Plea for Truth.

The sin of this age is sham and falsity. Where the utterance of truth involves a little unpopularity, it is not uttered by the great majority, and, if the lie is not spoken in words, it is in acts. This falsity underlies all the phrases of society—social, political, commercial, religious. Speaking of this sin as regards the press, Theodore Tilton, in his new out spoken, sparkling paper, The Golden Age, says: "The press is forfeiting its influence by its falsity. At bottom, men and women love the truth. And if they have no intellectual instinct to tell them what is truth, they have a moral instinct that tells them whether or no there is a purpose to give the truth. They cannot decide on what is truth or otherwise in fact. They cannot decide on what is true or otherwise in feeling. They cannot detect ignorance. They cannot detect insincerity. An insincere press will be discredited. Even great ability will not sustain it long. The press with half the wealth it now has, and twice the sincerity, would more than double its influence. We mean to add, if we can, something of this element as our contribution to the improved journalism of the future.

OF all beautiful house decorations the most beautiful is a well all.

Labor Conductive to Long Life.

In view of the short duration of life entailed by some occupations, it must be regarded as a consoling, yea, a sublime fact, that labor in general does not tend to shorten life; but, on the contrary, by strengthening health, lengthens life; while, on the other hand, idleness and luxury are productive of the results of the most unhealthy occupations. Dr. Guy, an Englishman, in calculating the average duration of life of the wealthy classes, arrived at the very surprising result, with regard to adults, that the higher positions in the social scale, the more unlimited their means, the less also the probability of a long life.

We have so long been accustomed to consider the possession of riches as the best guarantee for physical welfare, that many will be surprised to hear from Guy that "the probability that the duration of life lessens, with regard to the adults in each class of the population, in the same degree as the beneficial impulse for occupation is lacking. If a person who for a long time had lived an active life, retires from business, it may be taken for granted with a probability of ten to one, that he had seized the most effective means to shorted his life." We may smile at the soap maker who, after having formally retired from business, went, nevertheless, on each day of soap-boiling in his workshop; but it must also be acknowledged that his instinct did not mislead him. Of all conditions of life, idleness is hardest for nature to combat; and this is especially true of persons who have accustomed themselves to a busy life.

Brussels Lace.

A story is told in connection with the introduction of the manufacture of fine lace into Brussels, which is pleasant in itself and carries with it a lesson worth learning. A poor girl named Gertrude was deeply attached to a young man, whose wealth precluded all hopes of marriage. One night, as she sat weeping, a lady entered her cottage, and without saying a word, placed in her lap a cushion with its bobbins filled with thread. The lady then, with perfect silence, showed her how to work the bobbins, and how to make all sorts of delicate patterns and complicated stitches. As daylight approached the maiden had learned the art, and the mysterious visitor disappeared. The maiden grew rich by her work, and married the object of her love. Years afterward, while living in luxury, she was startled by the mysterious lady entering her house—this time not silent, but looking stern. She said, "Here you enjoy peace and comfort, while without are famine and trouble. I helped you, you have not helped your neighbors. The angels weep for you, and turn away their faces." So the next day Gertrude went forth, with her cushion and bobbin in land, and going from cottage to cottage she taught the art she had so mysteriously learned, and comfort and plenty came to all.

The Soul.

The human soul is active. It cannot be kept in a state of rest. It must either be engaged in developing itself by constant exercise, or be shrinking into the cover of meanness. The two spheres are entirely separate. The one stretches out in the illimitable fields of beauty which God unfolds as it rises higher and higher, until a halo of brightness, reflected from the Divine effulgence, fills it with rapture, and reposes finally amid the bowers of the true, the beautiful and the good. The other leads downward, and atones for its lack of intellectuality by feeding the baser passion. It utters the first breathings of suspicion, it suspects the character of some one; it acts upon this suspicion, it waits for the effect; it takes the effect and makes it a new cause, and then God pity the victim. What have seen the blighting curse of slander seize its fair victim, and drag it down to death. There gloating over its success like a demon seeking new spoils, and thus continue its work until Hell, gaping open, at last swallows up the fiend.

MUTUAL AID.—The race of mankind would perish did they cease to aid each other. From the time that the mother binds the child's head till the moment that some kind assistant wipes the death-damp from the brow of the dying we cannot exist without mutual help. All, therefore, that need aid have a right to ask it of their fellow-mortals; no one who holds the power of granting can refuse it without guilt.

HONOR, with some, is a sort of paper credit, with which men are obliged to trade, who are deficient in the sterling cash of morality and religion. Do not be over fond of anything, or consider that your interest which makes you break your word, quit your modesty, or inclines you to any practice which will not bear the light.

—Some drunken brutes entered the office of the Greenville Argus a few days ago, and threatened the life of the editor who is a disabled soldier. He warns the rowdies that a repetition of their brutal action will be dangerous to their health.

Hair Vigor,

For restoring Grey Hair to its natural Vitality & Color.

A dress which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair, Fresh or gray hair is restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparation dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

SOMETHING NEW
UNDER THE SUN.

A New Era In Medicine.

☞Let the Suffering and Diseased read the following.

☞Let all who have been given up by Doctors, and spoken of as incurable. read the following.

☞Let all who can believe facts, and can have faith in evidence, read the following.

Know all men by these presents. That, on this, the Twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-six, personally came Joseph Haydrick to me known as such, and being duly sworn deposed as follows: "That he is the sole general agent for the United States and dependencies thereof for preparations or medicines known as Dr. Maggiel's Pills and Salve, and that the following certificates are verbatim copies to the best of his knowledge and belief.

JAMES SMEITRE, Notary Public,
(L. S.) 14 Wall St. New York.

June 1st, 1866.

DR. MAGGIEL:—I take my pen to write you of my great relief and that the awful pain in my side has left me at last—thanks to your medicine. Oh, Doctor, how thankful I am that I can get some sleep. I can never write it enough. I thank you again and again, and am sure that you are really the friend of all sufferers. I could not help writing to you, and hope you will not take it amiss. JAMES MYERS,
116 Avenue, D.

This is to certify that I was discharged from the army with Chronic Diarrhœa, and have been cured by Dr. Maggiel's Pills.

WILSON HARVEY,
NEW YORK, April 7, 1866. 27 Pitt Street.

The following is an interesting case of a man employed in an Iron Foundry, who, in pouring melted iron into a flask that was damp and wet, caused an explosion. The melted iron was thrown around and on him in a perfect shower, and he was burnt dreadfully. The following certificate was given to me, by him, about eight weeks after the accident:

NEW YORK, Jan. 11, 1866.

My name is Jacob Hardy; I am an Iron Founder. I was badly burnt by hot iron in November last; my burns healed, but I had a running sore on my leg that would not heal: I tried Maggiel's Salve and it cured me in a few weeks. This is all true and anybody can see me at Jackson's Iron Works, 24 Avenue.

J. HARDY, 119 Greeck St.

EXTRACTS FROM VARIOUS LETTERS.

"I had no appetite; Maggiel's Pills gave me a hearty one."

"Your Pills are marvellous."

"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Maggiel has cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave half of one of your Pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"My nausea of a morning is now cured.'

"Your box of Maggiel's Salve cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Salve behind my ears, and the noise has left."

"Send me two boxes, I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose a dollar, your price is 25 cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your Pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Pills by return mail."

I Have over 200 such Testimonials as these, but want of space compels me to conclude.

FOR CUTANEOUS DISORDERS,

And all erruptions of the skin, the SALVE is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil.

It causes a frequent desire, and gives strength to Urinate, thereby removing Obstructions, Preventing and Curing Strictures of the Urethra, Allaying Pain and Inflamation, so frequent in this class of diseases, and expelling all Poisonous matter.

Thousands who have been the victims of incompetent persons, and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found they have been deceived, and that the "Poison" has, by the use of "powerful astringents," been dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form, and perhaps after Marriage.

For the REPUBLICAN.

THE ELECTION IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA AND ITS LESSONS —EDUCATION AND ITS FRUITS.

The political world at Washington moves along, to all appearances, in the same old groove. You might walk for a day within our capacious limits and not find a single case of apostacy from the "simon pure" Republican faith, and from the fervent asseverations every where heard, you would imagine there is not likely to be before the final crack of doom.

The Republican party is now established on such a firm basis, has taken such a strong hold upon the prevailing sentiment of all classes of people, the justice of its principles is so apparent to the commonest understanding, and the application of its faith to the living issues of the day, has been attended with such blessed results that it can withstand any ordinary amount of speculation and honest difference of sentiment, without imminent danger of disintegration and defeat.

There is a certain aptitude in its framework, and such a moral magnetism in the history of its life and the record of its actions, that nothing less than some terrible political convulsions could disturb the equilibrium of its organic forces or limit the sphere of its exalted influence for good.

For long has the Democracy been experiencing the adhesive tendency of its organism. Vainly have they been striving to force upon it issues of doubtful conclusion, and problems whose solutions involved the unity of the different complexions, both of skin and of opinion, in the active working ranks of the party organization. They are now compelled to say that the recent election, for territorial officers, was the fairest one ever held in the District of Columbia and that their defeat, which was certain from the outstart, was made the more lamentably signal and disastrous, from the very fact that their whole effort was made to foist upon us issues which had no vital connection with the campaign and were of paramount interest to neither party, in fact, were looked upon in the light of very doubtful expediency by those apparently most interested. I refer to the question of mixed schools in the District of Columbia. Whether it would be wise legislation by Congress—having exclusive jurisdiction in the matter—to enforce upon the people of Washington city, NOLENS VOLENS, a system of mixed schools, or whether it would not be wiser and better to leave the matter alone to the citizens, to be determined among themselves, as to its expediency and general adaptation to the common interest, in a well ordered and judicious system of education. And this is a question which will be tested throughout the Union by the same standard which prevailed in our councils and governed our votes.

Virginia, the mother of Presidents, and the vanguard in the more primitive civilization of the country, raised the Babylonian cry, and it is answered by the establishment of two thousand free schools within her limits, and having thus tasted of the more advanced literature of a more republican age desires to drink deeper. "What a rise was there my countrymen!" The whipping post, which less than a decade since, marked the barbarism of a boasted freedom in a free country, is to-day apparently so far back in the benighted regions of the past, that it seems but to index at once the exodus of barbarism and the genesis of mercy in the evolutions of humanity. Where ignorance was once the assumed safeguard of society, and oppression the fruitful source of power, the schoolmaster is now abroad, and the potential elements of a general and well ordered education are permeating through all classes of people and its benign influences, are building up an aristocracy of mind, which must, in the logic of events, supplant the long exploded and illy tolerated aristocracy of blood, the besotted offspring of Kings, and the worst foe to national progress.

What, but the unselfish and humanitarian element of the Republican party is the potential author of these mighty strides towards the evangelism of the age? The victories of peace are hardly a kin to those of war; for the absence of heated blood, and consequent want of revenge exalts them over the bloody exegesis of the sword, and links them with the more important exigencies of the higher spheres of life. The triumphs of peace are the very antithesis of war; for we see through a cordon of bayonets darkly, but in the light of peaceful diplomacy we see face to face, and in both we may congratulate ourselves as a party, that we are sustained by the verdict of a common humanity, and rewarded by the blessings of a better secured and more substantial Americanism.

It is said that war legislates, and in nothing is the fact more apparent than in the visible and actual decline of the Democratic party. The boom of the first gun at Sumpter decreed its downfall, and in the exultant day at Appomatix, its old and honorable prestige went down like Dagon before the Ark. It had challenged the verdict of the American people, and received its just condemnation. And now, after it has survived the terrible peradventures of four long years of bloody war—after it has withstood the bullets of its enemy in front, and the ballots of its more insidious, cowardly and detestable enemy in the rear, what potential prophet of evil shall predict the divorcement of the Republican party from the love and affection of the loyal people of the Union? Shall it be said that while war legislated our old and bitter antagonist into dishonor, and turned all its proud history into contempt and ridicule, in the piping times of peace, we wasted our strength and energy in fruitless quarrels and personal animosities until victory was impossible, and defeat accepted with that passive indifference with which the hardened convict meets the righteous verdict of his peers in a Court of impartial justice. God forbid, that the day should ever come; but upon the well tested principle that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," is it not better that in this, our day of merciful visitation, we overlook the little ills that somewhat disturb our harmony, than give encouragement to those egregious national evils which would be the sure followers of our downfall. I have said before that nothing but some terrible political convulsion could effect our dissolution; but it is, perhaps, more proper to say that our worst enemy is our own passive indifference; that while the opposition under disguised forms and with galvanized life and energy is struggling to require its lost ascendency,—piling Ossa upon Pelion to reach the citadel of our strength, our only safety is in united intelligent action, combatting with energy their evil schemes, and organizing our forces to maintain at all hazards, "Liberty with laws, and government without oppression."

J. G. J.

For the REPUBLICAN,

MR. EDITOR:—Will you allow a small space in your widely circulated paper, to call attention to a fair which the little ones belonging to the infant school of St. John's Episcopal Church, intend holding next Saturday afternoon and evening, in the room the adjoining Messrs. Blanchard's office on Allegheny St. The little fingers have been very busy under the superintendance of Mrs. Lane and two or three other ladies, in getting up some fancy articles for their sale, and their little hearts are as sanguine, as only such little hearts can be, of the success of their efforts.. Few will be found willing to discourage them, and cloud the sunny faces by showing indifference to their desire to do something in their childish way, for the Church and Sunday school they love, and many we hope will lend a helping hand, still in addition to their tiny offerings, some of the young ladies of the church, intend adding to the attraction, some delicious ice cream, water ices, and cake, which on an afternoon and evening in July, will surely be found acceptable, and it is to be hoped will not only meet with favor by the participants, but also with profit for the little folks interested.

BUILD UP THE TOWN.

We print below a letter from Chambers, Bro. & Co.. Founders & Machinists, No. 3001 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, which speaks in the most flattering terms, of the Horse Shoe Making Machine, invented by our fellow townsman D. I. Pruner. Read it.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22d, 1871.

MR. D. I. PRUNER, BELLEFONTE, PA.

Dear Sir:—When we examined the model of your horse-shoe making machine we did so with much pleasure.

The principle of its operation strikes us as the most direct way of accomplishing the object mechanically and we believe that if a machine properly constructed, with the mechanical movements obtained in the manner suggested by us, or as we may think best to accomplish the desired result; the machine would be one of great value and practicable in every respect.

It must be strong and durably built, with liberal wearing surfaces and the parts subject to greatest wear easily renewed.

We have scarcely any doubt but that a machine so built would not only make twenty (20) good saleable shoe's per minute but twice that number.

We should consider an investment made with the view above expressed carried out, to be no more than an ordinary business risk and much better than nine tenths of the inventions seeking capital.

Yours Truly,
CHAMBERS BRO. & CO.

If you have a discharge from the nose offensive or otherwise, partial loss of the sense of smell, taste or hearing, eyes watering or weak, feel dull and stupid or debilitated, pain or pressure in the head, take cold easily, you may rest assured that you have the Catarrh.—Thousands annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, terminate in Consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive or less understood by physicians. R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y. is the proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy a perfect specific for Catarrh, "Cold in the Head," or Catarrhal Headache, which he sends to any address, postpaid, for sixty cents, or four packages for $2. ECLECTIC COLLEGE—COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

Yesterday afternoon the commencement exercises of the spring session of the Eclectic medical college of Pennsylvania took place at the college building, on Pine street, above Fifth. The hall, on this occasion, was well filled with ladies and gentlemen, and the exercises, which were enlivened by music furnished by the Liberty cornet band, were opened by the Rev. Mr. Mitchell with prayer, after which Prof. Henry Hollenback announced the names of the graduates, and William Baird, the vice president of the board of trustees of the institution, conferred on the following persons the degree of doctor of medicine:

Each of the graduates was the recipient of handsome floral testimonials in the shape of bouquets, presented by their friends.

Professor Joseph Sites, M. D., then delivered the valedictory address, after which the benediction was pronounced.

This college, which, in the official circular issued by the trustees and faculty, is set down as "being capable of accommodating three hundred students, and containing all the most modern conveniences, including a large anatomical museum, and other indispensable auxiliaries for obtaining a thorough medical education. It was organized in 1842, incorporated by the Legislature in 1850, and created a university in 1867, and has already held fifty sessions, sending forth many eminent graduates, whose qualifications are attested by the success that has attended them."—Phil'a Daily Record.

Drunkenness and its Curses—No. 14.

BY REFORMATION.

In my article preceding this, your attention was called to the blasphemy of the Holy Ghost. It is a matter of deep consideration for all, and upon those professing Christ, in particular. How they who can at the same time offer up prayers, partake of the sacramental board, and be engaged in aiding and supporting the license law, for the sale of intoxicating liquors, is beyond the comprehension of all candid thinking minds. But it is not so? Most certainly it is the case. I need not make any further effort to prove this ascertion, than to appeal to your own conscience for the evidence. And how you can do so we will not undertake to say. How you can become the murderer of your own souls, as well as the murdering of thousands upon thousands of others, we will leave that for you to answer to God at the great day. Have I made a false charge in such a declaration? Can it be denied? You dare not offer a denial. To do so would only be to steep you further down into the gulf of corruption. It is the temperate, those who claim to be the light of the world, who supply the intemperate. No man would carry liquor into the country for the drunkard alone; no man would engage in a business that none but drunkards would support; no man could maintain a business for which they were the only customers. It would end in the ruin of his character and fortune. Can this for a moment be denied? Nay, verily not.

Then upon whom does the responsibility of drunkenness and its curses rest? There can be but one answer to this question. No man, woman or child upon earth can evade the answer. Reader you feel the answer written out upon the tablet of your heart already. "The christian community." Yes, truly, and so it is. And by the christian community, (or so claiming to be) are we weighed down with drunkenness and its train of kindered evils. Though that blood-stained law—the license law, and men claiming respectability and christian fellowship in the house of God, is the foundation upon which the license law now rests. In their management does it belch forth the lava of destruction among many, sending souls, beyond our power to number, into an ever-endless hell? Then how can you, how dare you, claim part or parcel with Christ or his kingdom, and be instrumental in the contamination of your own souls, and the medium of destruction to all around you?

He that hath an ear, let him hear what the spirit saith unto the churches. And will you not harken unto this call? What! Have you not ears to hear and eyes to see? Do you not often behold what you often turn your eyes away from? Ashamed in your own hearts for your own acts. The cries of the innocent declares to you through the spirit that you are instrumental in the destruction of human souls. But you have cast aside the monitor, and continue on in your work of carnage and ruin, and claim while you are doing this to be the light of the world, while through, and by you, is drunkenness and its curses kept fastened upon us.

Oh, who are you meaning? Is it I? Or is it I? Or is it us? Well, it is the temperate portion of the community, where we would naturally look for our christian community. Now let another speak. And how often have you been spoken to in the same way and manner, in years gone by? You had ears to hear, but heard not. You had eyes, but you would not see. Ye venerable and honorable men, for such you claim to be, raised to seats of legislation in a nation, claiming to be the freest upon earth, and you say, "destined to become the greatest and happiest among the nations of men," can you, will you behold, unmoved, the march of this monster, the license law? Shall it be mined in your secret chambers, and lift fearlessly its giant form in mid-day; deliberately dig the grave of our liberties; entomb the last hope of enslaved nations, and nothing be done by the national government to stop the destroyer? With the concurrent aid of an enlightened public sentiment, you possess much power of efficacious legislation, and by your example and influence, you of all men, possess the best opportunities of forming a correct and working sentiment on the side of temperance. Much power to you is given to check and extirpate this evil, and to roll down to distant ages, broader, and deeper, and purer, the streams of national prosperity. But what are you doing? What have you been doing? Look and you will see the desolation resting upon us. Open your ears and you will hear the cry of distress everywhere in the land. Will you plunge your souls down to the pit of perdition? Will you longer quench the spirit of mercy, and not heed the demands of your conscience? Will you continue to blaspheme the sanctifier of your souls? Will you longer continue to shut your eyes, and stop your ears to the appeals of mercy? Could I call around me in one vast assembly the temperate young men of our country, what could I say to them? What should I say to them? Why—Hopes of the nation, pleasing in the sight of the Lord, now in the morning of your days. But look well to your footsteps. Yea, mark well the man who seeks your vote for office in the council of our nation. See to this, young men, see that he is a man true to the cause of temperance, before you place him in power. Though you are now free from the curse of intemperance, remember vipers, and scorpions, and adders surround your way. Though you may now be the advocates of temperance, and that, too, in all true sincerity, nevertheless in casting your vote you may be aiding and supporting the monster—the license law—the father of intemperance. Look at the generation who have just preceded you. They started out into the world with as bright hopes as you are now doing, without a seeming cloud in their sky. But look upon them now. But few are left, and they, enfeebled, debauched, idle, poor, irreligious and vicious—with halting step dragging onward to meet an early grave. Their bright prospects are clouded, and their sun is set never to rise. No house of their own receives them—drove from one poor hovel to another, and to harder and harder fare. And now, who are those that wait on their footsteps with misery and distress deeply pictured on their faces? That is a father, and that is a mother, whose grey hairs are coming with sorrow to the grave. That is a sister, weeping over evils which she cannot arrest. And there is the broken-hearted wife, and there are the innocent and helpless children, for whom the father has provided the inheritance only of shame, dishonor, nakedness and wo. And is this, beloved young men, the history of your course? In this scene of desolation, do you behold the image of your future selves? Is this the poverty and disease which, as an armed man, shall take hold on you? And are your fathers, and mothers, and sisters, and wives, and children, to succeed to those who now move on in this mournful procession, weeping as they go? Yes, bright as your morning now opens, and high as your hopes beat, this is your noon, and your night, unless you shun those habits of intemperance which have thus early made theirs a day of damnation to their souls. If you frequent places of evening resort for social drinking; if you set out with drinking—if but a few drinks a day—your doom is sealed. And, again I say, young men, watch well your footsteps.

The Great Medical Discovery!
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS,
Hundreds of Thousands
Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.
WHAT ARE THEY?

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. Send for a circular.
They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.
THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,
Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.
For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.
DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION.
Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.
They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.
FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.
PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle.

John Paul.

This correspondent, who writes for Every Saturday, is one of those chaps who likes speculation, but who generally manages to make no money out of it. The following account of his latest "venture" is very laughable:—

As everybody knows, I am the son of rich but respectable parents. I started in life with this talismanic maxim, for money making:—Buy when every one is selling, sell when every one is buying. Well, some weeks since, wheat, which had been very bouyant, suddenly fell. Every one was selling. I had a little money, and confiding in my golden rule, "pitched in" and bought at "eighty-five." Very soon the staple commodity dropped to sixty-eight. Now, thought I, is the time to get an "average;" so mortgaging the first lot, I bought more. And I'll venture to say that no lady ever prayed so devoutly for her bread to rise as I did for wheat. But still it dropped. The fault, they said, was in the East—(excuse the pun, if the pun is obvious) until, as it still kept dropping, I thought it my duty to go to Chicago and put a stop to it. The first greeting that met me as I stepped into the Tremont House was a telegraph on the bulletin board—"Wheat is flat." Wheat, probably, was flat enough, but this announcement struck me as being rather a sharp truth. At half past eleven I went down on 'Change. It is, perhaps, needless to say, that I found things materially changed since I had bought. Wheat had "heated" in the warehouses, they said. Enigmatic reference was made to "stump-tail." "Buyers" were offering "fifty-five;" everybody appeared to be buying; therefore, following out my aphorism, I sold. The result may be summed up thus:—Two months ago I had money and no wheat. Subsequently I had wheat and no money. Now, by the Lord, I have neither! The second lot was a poor lot—as poor in fact, as the second edition of Pharaoh's kine, since it swallowed the first. But I bought it to make an "average," and I made it. For the past few days my friends have noticed a remarkable echo in my vicinity. Whenever we chance to meet, some chap will say, "Ahem, wheat!" and the reverberation rolls back, deep and distinct, "Damn wheat!" The echo may be profane, but it is the expression of a very general sentiment. For I think that most operators will concur with me in the following conslusion: That to buy at "eighty-five" and sell at "fifty-five" will not pay, unless a man does a very large business. That wheat, when it once begins to fall, is a good while in reaching bottom. That when it once begins to heat, it very soon becomes too hot to hold. And, lastly, that a man going into the wheat market, with even a small capital, if he is industrious and perseveres, may very soon succeed in owing more than it is probable he will ever be worth.

An Instructive Story.

An amusing story has just been published of an elderly gentleman who, living near Nottingham, England, being unmarried and enjoying the reputation of being, rich, recently made his will. He bequeathed various sums to friends and relatives, but his attention was chiefly directed to public charities. He gave £10,000 to the General Hospital, and a similar sum to the Society for the Propogation of the Gospel in Foreign parts. These provisions in his will gradually became known; and nothing could exceed the attentions paid him by all manner of people who wished to anticipate those expressions of gratitude which were the natural reward of such generosity. Presents were showered upon him. He was compelled to make long visits to his numerous acquaintances. Indeed, it was at a friend's house that he died; and this gentleman was only too glad to provide a sumptuous funeral and pay all the expenses. Unfortunately, it turned out that the elderly philanthropist, so far from having any money to leave, died in debt. His legacies were but the freaks of a generous imagination. The old gentleman whose closing years were consoled by the attentions of a large circle of expectant relatives and friends, had absolutely nothing to leave to anybody.

One of the best temporary cures for pride and affectashun that I have ever seen tried, says Mr. J. Billings, is seasickness; a man who wants to vomit never puts on airs.

Love, in its various phases, can only acquire purity or dignity when guided by an inward power over ourselves; that is in itself the very germ of virtue.

Grief knits two hearts in closer bonds than happiness ever can; common suffering is a far stronger link than common joys.

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.
GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.
Sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle.
The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now complete connections made,
An enterprising notion.
The mighty work at last is done,
So speedy and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.
No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about
And wore out all their clothing.
Chorus, for the end of each verse:
The Great Pacific Railroad laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.
Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of Spring and Summer clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.
People who travel by other routes, and also peoplewho, instead of travelling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest price.
Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere; if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality.

John Paul.

This correspondent, who writes for Every Saturday, is one of those chaps who likes speculation, but who generally manages to make no money out of it. The following account of his latest "venture" is very laughable:—

As everybody knows, I am the son of rich but respectable parents. I started in life with this talismanic maxim, for money making:—Buy when every one is selling, sell when every one is buying. Well, some weeks since, wheat, which had been very bouyant, suddenly fell. Every one was selling. I had a little money, and confiding in my golden rule, "pitched in" and bought at "eighty-five." Very soon the staple commodity dropped to sixty-eight. Now, thought I, is the time to get an "average;" so mortgaging the first lot, I bought more. And I'll venture to say that no lady ever prayed so devoutly for her bread to rise as I did for wheat. But still it dropped. The fault, they said, was in the East—(excuse the pun, if the pun is obvious) until, as it still kept dropping, I thought it my duty to go to Chicago and put a stop to it. The first greeting that met me as I stepped into the Tremont House was a telegraph on the bulletin board—"Wheat is flat." Wheat, probably, was flat enough, but this announcement struck me as being rather a sharp truth. At half past eleven I went down on 'Change. It is, perhaps, needless to say, that I found things materially changed since I had bought. Wheat had "heated" in the warehouses, they said. Enigmatic reference was made to "stump-tail." "Buyers" were offering "fifty-five;" everybody appeared to be buying; therefore, following out my aphorism, I sold. The result may be summed up thus:—Two months ago I had money and no wheat. Subsequently I had wheat and no money. Now, by the Lord, I have neither! The second lot was a poor lot—as poor in fact, as the second edition of Pharaoh's kine, since it swallowed the first. But I bought it to make an "average," and I made it. For the past few days my friends have noticed a remarkable echo in my vicinity. Whenever we chance to meet, some chap will say, "Ahem, wheat!" and the reverberation rolls back, deep and distinct, "Damn wheat!" The echo may be profane, but it is the expression of a very general sentiment. For I think that most operators will concur with me in the following conslusion: That to buy at "eighty-five" and sell at "fifty-five" will not pay, unless a man does a very large business. That wheat, when it once begins to fall, is a good while in reaching bottom. That when it once begins to heat, it very soon becomes too hot to hold. And, lastly, that a man going into the wheat market, with even a small capital, if he is industrious and perseveres, may very soon succeed in owing more than it is probable he will ever be worth.

An Instructive Story.

An amusing story has just been published of an elderly gentleman who, living near Nottingham, England, being unmarried and enjoying the reputation of being, rich, recently made his will. He bequeathed various sums to friends and relatives, but his attention was chiefly directed to public charities. He gave £10,000 to the General Hospital, and a similar sum to the Society for the Propogation of the Gospel in Foreign parts. These provisions in his will gradually became known; and nothing could exceed the attentions paid him by all manner of people who wished to anticipate those expressions of gratitude which were the natural reward of such generosity. Presents were showered upon him. He was compelled to make long visits to his numerous acquaintances. Indeed, it was at a friend's house that he died; and this gentleman was only too glad to provide a sumptuous funeral and pay all the expenses. Unfortunately, it turned out that the elderly philanthropist, so far from having any money to leave, died in debt. His legacies were but the freaks of a generous imagination. The old gentleman whose closing years were consoled by the attentions of a large circle of expectant relatives and friends, had absolutely nothing to leave to anybody.

ONE of the best temporary cures for pride and affectashun that I have ever seen tried, says Mr. J. Billings, is seasickness; a man who wants to vomit never puts on airs.

LOVE, in its various phases, can only acquire purity or dignity when guided by an inward power over ourselves; that is in itself the very germ of virtue.

GRIEF knits two hearts in closer bonds than happiness ever can; common suffering is a far stronger link than common joys.

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.
GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.
Sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now complete connections made,
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedy and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of Spring and Summer clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.
People who travel by other routes, and also people who, instead of travelling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest price.
Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere; if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality.

HOME NEWS.

LOCK HAVEN.—Is making preparations for a grand Celebration on the 4th.

GENUINE Michigan fine cut tobacco, for sale by N. Beck at the Bush House tobacco store.

GLASS WORKS.—There is a great deal of earnest talk in regard to the erection of another glass manufactory in our town.

BIG.—Levi A. Miller recently sold to one firm in Phila. $60,000 worth of tobacco in one day. What agent can beat Levi?

PURCHASED.—Samuel McWilliams, Esq., purchased on the 24th inst., the Erb farm in Ferguson township. We did not learn the price paid.

NO PAPER.—There will be no paper issued from the REPUBLICAN office next week. The journeymen, apprentices and devil, all desire and need a little rest. Our next number will be dated the 12th of July.

ACADEMY.—The annual closing Exercises of the pupils of the Bellefonte Academy, will take place at Reynolds Hall, on Wednesday Evening, June, 28th doors open at 7 o'clock. Exercises begin at 7½ o'clock precisely.

APOLOGETIC.—The inside pages of a portion of this week's edition of the REPUBLICAN are scarcely readable. It was caused by the failure of our rollers.—Through the courtesy of the Watchman office, we were enabled to print the balance of our edition.

ACCIDENTS &C.—Last Monday appears to have been an unlucky day on the railroad. A man near Mill Hall was run over by the cars, afterwards a child had its fingers smashed by the car window falling upon them, and in the evening a man near our depot barely escaped being killed.

PROGRESSING.—The work on the Lewistown and Sunbury Railroad is progressing rapidly. Mr. McGovern, the contractor is about putting on 100 tracklayers, and the early completion of the road is a fixed fact. Already one new engine has arrived at Lewistown for use on this road.

REPAIRING.—F. C. Richard, one of the best watch makers in America, has opened a shop for the repairing of watches in the room adjoining the store of the Messrs. Harper Brothers. Mr. Richard is a native of Switzerland and what he doesen't dnow about a watch is not worth knowing. Call and see him.

WIRE MILL.—Bellefonte must prosper. We are pleased to state that the Messrs. Valentine in Company with S. S. Lyon Esq. have determined to build an extensive wire and rolling Mill on Logans Branch at the Charles McAfferty dam. We are told they have a contract for 600 tons of telegraph wire. Success gentlemen.

A NEW Lodge of F. A. Y. M. of Pennsylvania was organized at Milroy, Pa., on last Thursday evening. The following named gentlemen were duly installed as officers, viz:—Joseph P. Blymyer, W. M.; Dr. Abram Harshbarger, S. W.; S. M. Brown, J. W.; Thomas Divin, S.; and Walter Graham, T. The Lodge will be known as Milroy Lodge, No. 492, and the first regular meeting will be held on the third Thursday evening in July.

NARROW GAUGE.—A meeting of stockholders to the L. C. & S. R. R., was held at Penn Hall, on last Wednesday evening, relative to the adoption of the 3 feet guage for our railroad. Gen. Buchanan was called to the chair, and A. J. Young, Sec'y. On motion, J. P. Coburn addressed the meeting and was followed by R. H. Duncan and Fred. Kurtz, all speaking in favor of the narrow guage. Further remarks were then made by Messrs. John Grove, S. Herring, G. Jameson, when a vote was taken to ascertain the sentiment of the stockholders present, which resulted in 12 votes for the narrow gauge and 2 votes against. Adjourned.—Reporter.

PIUS THE NINTH IN THE YEAR OF ST. PETER.—Last Wednesday, June 21st, being the 25th anniversary of the accession of Pius the Ninth to the throne of Peter, Rev. Father McIlvaine, pastor of the Catholic church at this place, had the occasion honored in a most creditable manner. Mass was said in the fore part of the day for the conversion of all sinners to the true knowledge and love of God; and for the prosperity and peace of all christian nations. In the evening twenty-five rounds were fired at intervals of five minutes, a grand "Te deum" being rendered and the great bell of the church ringing all the while.

St. Peter reigned twenty-five years over the Church, and since, no other Pope has reigned so long, (although one came within four days of it.) Pius IX alone reached the years of St. Peter; born at Sinigaglia, May 13, 1772; crowned Pope, June 21st 1846. Ad multos annos!

NARROW GAUGE RAILROADS.—We clip the following communication from the Centre Hall Reporter, by request. Read it.

MR. EDITOR:—The subject of the change of guage for railroads is now attracting the lively attention of engineers and capitalists in all parts of the civilized world. A complete revolution in what had hitherto been accorded to be the proper standard gauge for railroads, viz: 4 feet 8½ inches,—seems now to be taking place in the minds of those who have made this subject the study of their lives. Evidence sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical, has been adduced to show that the advantages to be derived from a 2 feet 9 inch or 3 feet gauge are equal in every respect to those obtained from the present acknowledged standard, or 4 feet 8½ inch gauge, and at a greatly reduced cost. This then becomes a serious matter for the consideration of those who contemplate investing their money in new railroad enterprizes. A saving in the construction of the road bed of nearly fifty per cent, is a very considerable item in itself—but the great saving in the operative expense, is where the merits of the narrow gauge prove its advantages over the broad. A railroad once constructed, no matter at what cost—much or little—is a fixture; the money once expended, whether judiciously or not, remains a permanent investment; the loss once incurred, ends with its completion; but the running expenses of a railroad are a continuous daily and hourly drain upon its gross earnings, so that if the expenses can be reduced three-fifths of the present cost of transportation, as is claimed by eminent engineers and prominent railroad men, it requires no wonderful arithmetical calculation for a subscriber to stock to find in which direction his interest lies. Would it not then be well for those who contemplate new railroad connections, to carefully examine this question of gauge upon its square merit? Throw aside prejudice or pre-conceived notions or I might almost say, obsolete ideas—for in twelve months hence this expression will carry with it its full force and meaning. Railroads, like all other subluinary things, are capable of improvement—improvements have been made, are being made, and will continue to be made. Hence it becomes a question well worthy the consideration of the subscribers to the capital stock of the L. C. & S. C. R. R., whether or not, to urge upon their directors to adopt such gauge for their road, as well as make the stock a sure paying investment. In adopting the narrow gauge none of the advantages are lost that can be claimed for the 4 feet 8½ inch gauge—transportation, convenience and dispatch are as readily obtained upon one as upon the other.

A. SUBSCRIBER.

For the REPUBLICAN.

MR. EDITORS:—As general news is somewhat scarce allow me through your columns to express a practice indulged in by many would-be gentlemen who are regular attendants at the Milesburg M. E. Church. They are known by the name of Gaping Brigade, and it appears from there actions that they are fully organized for a summer campaign, this Brigade can be seen on any Sabbath evening filing right and left from the steps of the church to the outer gates, and for a considerable distance along the side walk, completely blocking up the way so that they can have a convenient opportunity to gape impudently into the face of every lady that may pass. (If by hard elbowing she may succeed in passing there ranks).

Ladies are insulted by impudent uncouth members of this Brigade. Old persons are necessitated to wait until this unprincipled organization disperses before they can retire peacefully to their homes. I think it would be well for the citizens to adopt the same stringent measures of our Altoona neighbours. Fine every one as a nuisance for violating the rules of property and let them know that ingress and egress to the church is free to all without being insulted by the Gaping Brigade. We may refer to this again and give the names of those belonging to this Brigade.

BY A LADY.

The Superintendents of the different Sunday schools of Walker, Marian and Howard townships and Howard Borough, met in the Presbyterian church in Jacksonville on Saturday, June 17th, for the purpose of organizing a S. S. Association.

On motion, Rev. R. Crittenden was chosen Chairman and H. T. Lucas, Esq., Secretary pro tem. After singing, reading the scriptures and prayer, Mr. Crittenden stated the object of the meeting. Resolution was made and adopted by unanimous vote that a District S. S. Association be formed, comprising the three townships and borough named above. Messrs. J. P. Harper, John Jenkins, and John Hoy, Jr., were appointed a committee to prepare a constitution and to report at the next meeting. It was also voted that Rev. Mr. Buckley and Messrs. D. Weaver, J. Jenkins, J. Carner and J. Hoy, Jr., be a committee of arrangements for a S. S. Convention at Hublersburg to be called as soon as convenient. David Weaver, Esq., was chosen to act as President and John Hoy, Jr., as Secretary until permanent officers shall be elected. Adjourned.

ALMOST FATAL.—Mrs. McMullan, residing at the Irvin Iron Works, came near losing her life from the sting of a wasp. In five minutes after she was stung the virus had penetrated her entire system. She could not speak nor scarcely move, and suffered the most excruciating pain. The friends dispaired her life and summoned medical assistance. Last account says she is recovering.

All About Bellefonte—What the Editors Say.

A great many editors were in town last week, and some of them have already given their impressions of the place. Col. BIDDLE, of the Philadelphia Age, thus speaks of us:

The meeting of the Pennsylvania Editorial Association, still in progress, was begun most auspiciously, by the assemblage of the Democratic editors in convention, at Bellefonte, Centre county. To the usual business was added the most harmonious and agreeable personal intercourse, not only among themselves, but with the people of that beautiful and hospitable city. They joined, without distinction of party, in a most courteous welcome to their visitors. On the evening of the 13th, an entertainment was given at the Bush House, one of the finest hotels in Pennsylvania, and among the company were the most esteemed and distinguished citizens of the vicinity. The hatchet of political strife was buried for the time; the calumet of peace went round, and the occasion was in every respect one that will be long remembered with unmingled satisfaction by all who participated in it. The ordinary attractions, indeed, of this delightful spot, ought to draw thither the travelers and tourists who, in the summer season, seek a cool, salubrious climate, fine sport and beautiful scenery. The woods and streams abound in game; the accommodations for travelers are of the best character; and those who visit Bellefonte for a short time will have but one regret—that they cannot stay longer. The Editorial Association of the State assembled at Williamsport on the 14th inst., and thence proceeded on an excursion to Watkin's Glen

Among those who seemed particularly delighted with Bellefonte and its people, was HARRY SMITH, of the Lancaster Intelligencer, who is president of the State Editorial Association. In a letter to the Intelligencer Mr. SMITH "goes for us" after the following fashion:

Bellefonte is a romantic and beautiful town, containing about 3,000 inhabitants. It is surrounded by mountains, and has but one outlet into the great world of trade—namely, the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad, a branch of the Pennsylvania Central, which runs from Tyrone to Lock Haven, making connections at the former with the Central, and at the latter with the Philadelphia and Erie. It is the county-seat of Centre, and is beautified with many elegant public and private buildings. There are three fine large hotels here, the "Bush," the "Brockerhoff" and the "Garman," besides others of lesser note. The Bush House is one of the largest hotels in the State, is handsomely furnished throughout, and is well kept. The present proprietor, Mr. Frank McClain, seems to understand his business, and is a polite and accommodating host. The other hotels, we believe, are also managed well.

There are likewise three first-class banking institutions here, one of which is owned principally by Major W. F. Reynolds, brother of Samuel H. Reynolds, Esq., of our city. Major Reynolds is a man of great business tact and a gentleman of taste and culture. He lives in a very handsome residence, elegantly furnished, but is unmarried. This fact I beg leave to call the attention of lady readers to, generally. The First National Bank is presided over by Mr. Edward Humes, with John P. Harris, Esq., as cashier, and the Centre County Bank by Mr. Henry Brockerhoff, with J. Dunlap Shugert as cashier. Each of these banks do a heavy business, and each is regarded as altogether reliable and trustworthy.

The glass manufactory at this point is one of the best in the country, and turns out glass that is not excelled anywhere. This institution is now operated by Mr. Jacob V. Thomas, and gives employment to a large number of hands. There are also several planing mills and foundries in the place, and just beyond the limits of the borough are the celebrated iron works of the Messrs. Valentine, and further on, the far-famed axe manufactory of Mr. Harvey Mann. We have not time, however, to particularize further.

There are three papers published here, the Democratic Watchman, the Bellefonte Republican, and The Christian Union Work—a monthly. The former paper is published by P. Gray Meek, Esq., the plucky member of the late Legislature from Centre county, whose printing establishment is one of the finest we have ever seen. Mr. Meek is highly popular with his home folks, and will doubtless be returned to the Legislature. He is an able and fearless editor, and a courteous gentleman. The Republican is edited by Col. W. W. Brown, a clever, social gentleman, and a man of considerable brains. Brown is the original of the famous apple-dumpling story, which, however, I have not time to tell here. The other paper, the religious journal, is published by Mr. R. A. Kinsloe.

Bellefonte received its name from a beautiful spring of clear, cold water, which supplies the town, and which is really worth seeing. It gushes out of the ground in bubbles, and is always clear and cold as ice. It is said that the great French minister, Talleyrand, during his visit to this country, once came here and spent several weeks, and the natural chair or seat that he occupied, near this spring, is still pointed out to strangers.

There ought to be large manufactories here of all kinds. The water power is magnificent, and could be so easily utilized. Capitalists might here find highly profitable investments for money.

D. G. Bush, Esq., has probably done more for Bellefonte than any other single man in it. He has put up many of its finest buildings and is an active, enterprising gentleman. The mammoth hotel at which I am stopping is called after and owned by him.

Spring Creek, which flows through the town of Bellefonte and furnishes such superior water power, is full of fine trout, but the speckled beauties in it are capricious, and they can only be lured from their native element by the most cunning wiles of artistic anglers. Throughout the surrounding mountains are numerous smaller brooks in which the true Salmo montates abound. Yesterday, P. Gray Meek, Esq., the energetic editor of the Watchman, in company with Cyrus Alexander, Esq., and Messrs. Jeremiah B. Butts and Frederick Jarrett, made an excursion to Laurel Run, where they captured nearly three hundred trout. True it is that most of them were small, but mountain trout can better afford to be small than any other fish in the world. Other parties have been casting flies in likely places, and the result is that the larder of the Bush House has in its recesses laid away on ice, almost as beautiful in death as in life, more than enough trout to feed all the hungry editors and their friends.

The Titusville Courier had one of its staff here also, Mr. WARNER. After giving a long description of Bellefonte and its manufacturing and iron interests, Mr. W. thus speaks of the trip to the summit of Nittany Mountain:

Following the adjournment, all who chose partook of a luncheon, and then surrendering ourselves to the tender mercies of the citizens of Bellefonte, we took seats in the carriages they had provided for a drive to the mountains, and a most delightful one it proved to be. Following a well-kept turnpike for seven miles up between two mountains, with a grade so light and turns so frequent that one scarcely realized that he is gaining any great height we suddenly found ourselves on the summit of the Nittany Mountains, which divide the Nittany and Penn valleys, one thousand feet above our starting point, and looking down on the Penn Valley, with its broad expanse of cultivated fields, waving grain and forest trees, with Egg and the Seven Mountains in the distance, and Centre Hall some miles distant, yet seemingly within a stone's throw, all spread out at our feet as a map, six hundred feet below. It was a grand and most beautiful scene. The return was a rapid ride down the mountain, which ended at the hotel soon after eight o'clock.

THE Johnstown Democrat Edited by H. D. & L. D. Woodruff speaks of our town and citizens as follows:

The members of the Association passed a very pleasant time in the beautiful city of Bellefonte, rendered doubly gratifying by the noble generosity of all parties of her citizens. On Tuesday afternoon their fleet steeds, and beautiful carriages were assembled, and gave the Association an excursion to the top of Nittany mountain, where a most magnificent, and enchanting view burst upon their delighted vision. After returning to the Bush House, one of the finest Hotels in the State, the citizens, irrespective of party, had prepared a most sumptuous and bountiful trout supper, and united with us around the festive board. The hatchet of political warfare was buried, and the calumet of peace was interchanged amid the most kindly feelings. The usual toasts and speech-making prevailed, and all seemed to enjoy the hospitality of the citizens with unbounded pleasure. We should like to mention the names of many whose kind attentions made our visit to Bellefonte so enjoyable, yet where all were so kind, to mention a part would seem invidious. When we left on Wednesday morning, our great regret was that we could no longer stay, and partake of the wonderful beauty of the landscape, and revel still longer among her beautiful vales, murmuring streams, and mountain glories, and above all, that we must part with the pleasant society of the social, distinguished, and enlightened people of the Capital of Centre county.

John W. Rhorer, Esq., Editor of the Democratic Sentinel published at Kittanning Pa., among many other good things says:

We received a great deal of kindness from the good people of Bellefonte, were furnished with horses and carriages for a drive to the top of Nittany mountain, from which a most magnificent view of Pennsvalley beyond was had.

Returning to Bellefonte in the evening, a most enjoyable trout and champaign supper was served up at the 'Bush House,' one of the first hotels in the State, Mr. Frank McClain, Proprietor. This was also a free will offering of the hospitable citizens of the place, and participated in by them without regard to party. We think we never found a more genial and generous people than those of Bellefonte, with our friends P. Gray Meek, Esq., of the Watchman, and his most social and estimable lady at their head, and who will always be held in kind remembrance. And we certainly never heard inside of the same limited space of time, more genuine, spontaneous wit, in response to the several toasts offered, than upon the occasion of that supper.

Col. W. W. Brown, of the REPUBLICAN, was most felicitous in his response to a toast, and should be a Democrat instead of a Republican. "Come out from among the foul party," Colonel.

From the Presbyterian.

IN MEMORIAM.

Messrs. Editors.—A sudden and severe bereavement has recently spread redoubled sorrow over the congregation of our respected brother, the Rev. W. T. Wylie, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Bellefonte, Pa. Scarcely had it become known that death had called away, by a lingering disease, the loved companion of their late honored pastor, the Rev. Dr. Linn, than tidings spread that the messenger had come again, and that the wife of their present pastor, after an illness of a few days, was also numbered with the dead. Funeral services for each were held in immediate succession in the midst of the people to whom both had sustained a relationship so dear.

Mrs. Wylie, the subject of this memorial notice, was born in the neighborhood of Allegheny, Pa., and was the offspring of godly parents. She received an accomplished education at the Stubenville Academy, of which the Rev. Dr. Beatty was then the Principal. At an early age she made a profession of religion in the Reformed Presbyterian church, Alleghany City, at that time under the pastoral care of the Rev. A. W. Black, D. D., and of which her parents were valuable members. Her usefulness was afterwards enlarged by her marriage with the Rev. W. T. Wylie, and during his pastorates at Milton, New Castle, and Bellefonte, her uniform kindness, her unwearied co-operation in every good work, her remarkable discretion and prudence, won the esteem and love of all with whom she was associated. Exceedingly unobtrusive, and always calm and gentle, she manifested in a remarkable degree, intelligence, sound judgment, purity of motive, and true Christian feeling. A strong and constant sense of duty controlled her, and in all relationships of life she was "one that obtained mercy of the Lord to be faithful." Not only was she a valuable counsellor she was also a most useful worker. She knew when and what to speak, and she could be silent also. In the congregation she was "an ensample to the flock," and at home her quiet influence was felt in every arrangement. She filled well the difficult position of "a minister's wife."

Her death was not anticipated by her excellent physcians or by her family until a few hours before her departure, when it was noticed that the heavy sleep into which she had fallen was "the sleep of death." She herself, however, seemed to have expected it, and although she possessed every thing which would make life desirable, she expressed her willingness to depart whenever God would call her, and spoke of "the holy heavenly home" to which she hoped to go, expressing her desire that her remains might be laid by the side of the dear mother at whose dying bed she had ministered only a few weeks before. In compliance with her wishes, her body rests, in the hope of the resurrection unto life, in the beautiful cemetery at Uniondale, Allegheny. The funeral services at the interment were conducted by the Rev. Drs. Howard and Noble, of Pittsburg; the Rev. Mr. Davis, of Birmingham; and the Rev. T. W. J. Wylie, of Philadelphia. A large company of mourning friends testified how much she was esteemed and loved by those who knew her best. Her removal, when the prospects of happiness and usefulness were greater than ever before, is one of the deep things of God, which it is too hard for us to understand. "Her sun is gone down while it was yet day," but it has gone down without a cloud. He hath done this who "doeth all things well.

SPEER'S PORT WINE.—The Port grape is now cultivated in this country for a wine unexcelled by any other, in its mellow juiciness, richness of flavor, and brilliancy of color. The grape has been brought to a perfection never attained in Portugal by Mr. A. Speer, in his vineyard New Jersey. Physicians say it is superior to imported Port for invalids, and in summer it is more agreeable and refreshing than claret. Clergymen use it for its purity as a communion wine, while the most fashionable families drink it as a dinner wine.—N. Y. Tribune. Some of our druggists keep it.

NEWS FROM OTHER COUNTIES.

MIFFLIN COUNTY.

The following we clip from the Gazette of the 21st inst.

A young lady was seriously affected by taking ether on the 19th inst., in order to have a tooth extracted....Jack Bloom, son of Michael, while creeping about a roof at Selheimer's stable on the 19th inst., fell from it to the ground, breaking his arm.....On the 16th inst., an employee of the P. R. R. Co., named Smauley, of Mt. Union, was run over by a hand car a short distance below Black Log Station. He was not much injured, though rolled over several times....A gentleman in Market street was struck in the face by a ball on the 20th inst., thrown about by some boy. The constable ought to arrest every man or boy throwing anything about the street—whether balls, stones, or clubs. There's plenty of room outside of town to throw, and that's the proper place to do such things, if they are done at all. ....On the 17th inst., three young men from Ferguson's Valley rode some horses to Kishacoquillas creek above Mt. Rock Mill, when two of them determined to go in bathing. The water being rather shallow where they were, Jefferson Snyder, son of Joseph, and his companion Harland went down stream about 50 yards where the water was from three to four feet deep. The third remained on the bank where he had been riding in his horse, and shortly after his attention was attracted to the two below, who were holding each other and apparently dashing about the water, but as he supposed in play. Harland however called to him that Snyder was drowning, and before more assistance arrived, such proved to be the case, the unfortunate young man having ceased to exist when his body was rescued. Whether he was attacked by cramp or with a fit. It is impossible to tell; in his struggles he drew Harland under water once, and the latter being the weaker of the two, probably lost his presence of mind, and under the instinct of self-preservation, hesitated too long in going to Snyder's rescue. A young man named Moyer got the body out, The deceased was aged about 22 years, was a steady and industrious young man, and leaves many friends to mourn his untimely end.

BLAIR COUNTY.

The Standard says that a little boy between eight and nine years old—son of Andrew Merrits, of Gaysport—was drowned in the river, immediately below the viaduct, on Sunday the 17th inst. It appears that the little fellow, whose parents reside close to the river bank, was playing with a block along the river's edge, and accidentally fell in the water, and being unable to swim, and no person seeing him, drowned. His body was first discovered floating in the water by a couple of his play fellows, who waded in and brought it to shore and immediately gave the alarm. Every effort was made to resuscitate him; but, although he had been in the water but a short time, the vital spark had fled beyond reach.

HUNTINGDON COUNTY.

The Globe says that a new lodge of I. O. of O. F. is to be organized at Waterfall Mills next Saturday....Temperance organizations in Huntingdon wilt in hot weather....The Methodists are engaged at enlarging and otherwise improving their parsonage at Three Springs.....A little son of John C. Shore, residing near Maddensville, this county, fell into a spring last week and was not discovered until dead....Rev. R. A. Miller, formerly of this county, delivered the address to the decoration of soldiers' graves in Richmond, Va. Quite an honor, we should think.... Jackson Lamberson of this place was thrown from his buggy near Marklesburg, by his horse frightening at a hand car and running off. He escaped with a sprained ankle....The Journal says that twelve young wild turkeys were captured the other day, in Juniata township....An unsuccessful attempt was made to burglarize Dad Lewis's grocery store on Tuesday night of last week.....Broad Top has just added a splendid passenger car to "Dolph's" Mail train—just new from the shop. It is a real comfort to ride in such a car. Rhom's Lightning Express has been raised to the dignity of two excellent passenger cars. Broad Top is about as well supplied in this respect as any branch road in the State.

CLEARFIELD COUNTY.

We clip from the Republican of the 21st inst., the following items:—The man Waple, who was put in prison several weeks ago for placing obstructions on the Railroad at Wallaceton, was taken out on a writ of Habeas Corpus on Monday, and had a hearing before Judge Clyde. An effort was made by his counsel and friends to release him on bail, but after hearing the case his honor raised the bail from $2,000 (the original amount demanded) to $5,000. On failing to enter into bonds the prisoner was re-committed....An accident occurred by which a son of John Shaw, of Lawrence township, received a painful wound. He, like other boys of his age, thought it would be just the thing to have a pistol, and purchased one from a neighboring boy. The first time he undertook to use it, however, he accidentally discharged it—the ball passing through the fleshy part of the hand, and producing a wound that will prevent him from using the hand or pistol for some time.....A man by the name of N. H. Trude, lately from Ohio, was lodged in prison on Thursday last, in default of bail, charged with bigamy and incest. He has certainly made rapid strides in crime, in a social way, if these charges prove to be true. A penitentiary is certainly a house of refuge for a community afflicted with such social fiends. Trude may have supposed that he had the same right to indulge in the bigamy line that Congressman Bowen and other high-flyers have.....The fine progress made by the workmen engaged on the new prison demonstrates its completion at a much earlier day than was conjectured. Mr. Jacob Dimeling, who has the contract for delivering the stone, has over fifteen hundred perch on the ground, half of which is already in the wall. Evil doers who propose to do business in this county had better close up their affairs this season at all events, because there will be no getting out of this new mansion except through the very intricate meshes of the law. A few wooden keys manufactured to order by the profession will be of no avail in escaping from the new mansion.

CLINTON COUNTY.

In the Republican of the 21st inst., we find that on Wednesday last, Mr. Joseph Grobertt, an employee of Mr. S. M. Bickford's fell off the tramway of the mill and broke both bones of his right leg, dislocated his ankle and received internal injuries of a serious character. His condition yesterday was much improved, and his physician, Dr. Irvin, is hopeful of his recovery.....On Friday last, a man named Thomas, residing in the suberbs of the city, in the vicinity of Bald Eagle Creek, was thrown from a horse and had his left arm broken.....On yesterday forenoon a boy named John Mader, son of Mr. Jacob Mader, residing in the First ward, accidentally shot himself through the forefinger of the left hand while carelessly handling a pistol.....One day last week a colored boy, son of Ed. Smith, fell down and broke an arm, while endeavoring to escape the presence of a drunken man, who had frightened the little fellow nearly out of his wits..... A man named James McCloskey, engaged at cutting timber on Cook's Run, this county, cut his foot, with an axe, very painfully one day last week..... On Friday last, June 16th, William H. Fearon of Beech Creek, raised the largest, and when finished, perhaps the best barn in that township, and one which those who contemplate building barns would do well to pattern after. .....The wheat crop is fast ripening and will be larger and several weeks earlier than for some years past. From appearance it is very well filled, there being but little weevil in it, and being good straw a big crop is expected. The hay crop will not be over one-half what it was last year. The oats is shooting, and being very small, will not make more than half a crop. The corn is small but looks well. The fruit will not make a large crop, about half..... The Democrat says that Mr. J. T. Gifford has been appointed Ticket Agent at the P. and E. R. R. Depot in Lock Haven.....There will be a presentation on the Fourth to the Firemen. Some of our public-spirited ladies have, through their energy, collected enough to present each company with a hand some guidon (a flag or triangle-shaped streamer similar to that carried by cavalry) and the Fire Department with a flag 12 by 20 feet.....On last Tuesday a little boy named Mike Welsh, about seven years old, was drowned in White's basin while playing there with some other boys. He was in the water about four minutes, but when taken out he could not be resuscitated, owing, most probably, to the inexperience of those present.....On the 13th instant, old Father John Snavely, of Porter township, this county, died near Hamburg at the residence of his daughter, Widow Shilling, aged 90 years, 7 months and 19 days. For the last few years of his life he was very much emaciated. He served in the war of 1812. A messmate during his service, we are told, survives him in this county. The old gentleman has been receiving a pension for his services. He had a numerous family connection, and lived to see his great-grand-daughter's daughter. He was father to 7 children; grandfather to 48; great-grandfather to 56; great-great-grandfather to one; making in all 112.
